The Roman Republic

In 509 B.C., the Romans drove out the Etruscans and set up a new government, which they called a republic. In a republic, some officials are chosen by the people.

In the early republic, the senate dominated the government. Its members were patricians, or members of the landholding class.

Little by little, the plebeians, or common people, gained some political power. These included the right to elect their own officials, called tribunes. The tribunes could veto, or block, laws that they felt harmed plebeians.

More than 2,000 years later, the framers of the United States Constitution would adapt Roman ideas of government, such as the senate, the veto, and checks on political power.

How was Greco-Roman civilization formed?

The Romans borrowed heavily from Greek culture after they conquered Greece.

At the same time, Roman generals carried achievements of Roman civilization to conquered lands.

The blending of Roman, Hellenistic, and Greek traditions produced Greco-Roman civilization.

Trade and travel during the Pax Romana (Roman Peace) helped spread this new civilization.

Roman Advances in Literature, History, and Philosophy

History

Historians wrote about the rise and fall of Roman power.

Poetry

Writers imitated Greek styles in prose and poetry.

Virgil praised Rome's heroic past in the Aeneid.

Poets used verse to satirize, or make fun of, Roman society.

Philosophy

Roman philosophers borrowed heavily from the Greeks.

Stoics emphasized acceptance of one's fate and concern for the well-being of others.

Roman Advances in Art and Science

Built roads, bridges, and harbors throughout empire Built many aqueducts- carried water	Romans left scientific research to the Greeks. Ptolemy proposed that Earth was the center of the universe. Galen used experiments to prove a conclusion.

Roman Law

During the Roman empire, these principles of law fostered unity and stability:

- An accused person was presumed to be innocent until proven guilty.
- The accused was permitted to face the accuser and offer a defense.
- Guilt had to be established through evidence.
- Judges were expected to interpret the laws and make fair decisions.

Centuries later, these principles would become the basis for legal systems in Europe and the Americas.

The Rise of Christianity

Religious Diversity in the Early Empire

As long as people honored Roman gods and acknowledged the divine spirit of the emperor, they were allowed to worship other gods as they pleased.

After the Romans conquered Judea, they excused the monotheistic Jews from worshiping the Roman gods.

Rome mistrusted Christians because they refused to make sacrifices to the emperor or honor the Roman gods.

Roman officials persecuted the Christians. Many Christians became martyrs, people who suffer or die for their beliefs.

The Teachings of Jesus

Some of Jesus' teachings were rooted in Judaism:

Belief in one God

Ten Commandments

Mercy and sympathy for the poor and helpless

Obedience to the laws of Moses

Jesus also preached new beliefs:

- 1) Called himself the Son of God
- 2) Proclaimed that he brought salvation and eternal life to anyone who would believe in him
- 3) Jesus also emphasized God's love and taught the need for justice, morality, and service to others.

The Early Christian Church

Early Christian communities shared a common faith and a common way of worship.

A bishop was responsible for all Christians in a particular area called a diocese.

Gradually, some bishops became patriarchs, with authority over other bishops in their area.

The Christian Church thus developed a hierarchy.

The Huns dislodged other Germanic peoples and, little by little, conquered the Roman empire.
